Church Women Observe World Day of Prayer

The World Day of Prayer will be observed at the Methodist Church in Bethel on Friday at 3:30 o'clock. Each year this annual service is conducted through the combined efforts of the Protestant women of Bethel and celebrated alternately in the Congregational and Methodist Churches.

Coming on the first Friday of the Lenten Season, it represents the unity of Protestant women all over the world in a service of prayer and meditation for the advancement of Christian faith and action. In millions of small communities, cities and towns throughout the free world, the Protestant women, representing many races, colors and creeds, will be conducting some kind of service on Friday, as their dedication of faith in God and the hope for world peace.

The service in Bethel at the Methodist Church is for all the women of Bethel and the neighboring communities who wish to join them. After the service, there will be a time of fellowship and refreshment.

Those taking part in the service are, Mrs. Ellis Waldron, Mrs. Leslie Marcuse, Mrs. Margaret Bean, Miss Helen Varney, Miss Mabel Packard, Mrs. Edna York, Mrs. Muriel Butters, and Mrs. Edith Bean. The combined Junior Choirs of the Congregational and Methodist Churches under the direction of Mrs. Betty Tibbetts, will present special music.

It is hoped that the women of the community will gather in large numbers to observe this special Day of Prayer and Fellowship.

Family Life Development Group to Meet Tuesday

Everyone is cordially invited to attend the second meeting of the Family Life group sponsored by the University of Maine Extension Service on Feb. 25 at the Gould Home Economics Cottage at 7:30 P. M.

The first half hour is led by Dr. John Chantiny, Family Life Specialist, and a parent himself. The second half hour the group is split into three smaller groups for discussion led by Stan Brown, Bruce Bailey and Betty Tebbets. The last half hour of the workshop reunites the entire group for questions, further discussion of new thoughts and ideas.

No attempt is made to arrive at any definite decisions, conclusions, or solutions, as every family is different. The first workshop centered about the subject of authority and discipline in the family. We talked and thought about such questions as: Do we use discipline as a means to a definite goal? Are we aware of what our goals really are? When we tell a child we are doing for his own good, is it really for his good or for ours? Do we base disciplinary measures on fear? Fear of what, accidents, or public disapproval? Is our praise of children realistic enough so that he can think of his parents as honest? Do we stop to think what we are actually doing and of more importance, why? Personal answers to some of these questions lead us to understand that often when we become aware of why we do certain things, attitudes change and the behavior, happiness and welfare of the family group improve.

Come and join us and be ready to make suggestions as to what subject you would like for the third and final meeting.

Crusade For Freedom Campaign Announced

The local unit of the American Legion Auxiliary will participate in the annual Crusade for Freedom fund drive in support of Radio Free Europe. It was announced by Mrs. Pearline McMillin, President. The date of the Bethel drive will be announced later, she said.

The Crusade for Freedom, endorsed by the national American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary, supports the truth broadcasts of Radio Free Europe. A non profit, private American organization, Radio Free Europe sends news and information to five Soviet dominated countries of East Europe: Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria.

"The success of the 1956 Crusade for Freedom drive will mean the continuation of Radio Free Europe vital work in providing uncensored broadcasts for countries which have no free press or free radio" Mrs. Pearline McMillin said.

Forty Dollars contributed by the American people are used to maintain 29 powerful transmitters in Europe Mrs. McMillin pointed out. These transmitters are strong enough to succeed against the jamming efforts of the Communists.

President Eisenhower, one of the Crusade's founders, recently said, "The Crusade for Freedom has long enlisted by support. The stirring events of the last year in Poland and Hungary are proof that the spirit of freedom is alive in the hearts of people everywhere and that these people are receptive to the message of Radio Free Europe."

She was born in Mason, April 4, 1877, and was the daughter of Daniel and Mary Wheeler Morrill. She is the last of a family of eight children.

For many years she made her home with her parents in Bethel and after her mother's death went to live with a sister Mrs. Charles Horne in Mexico. In 1941 she came to make her home with a nephew, Myron Morrill, and family of Mason and Bethel. For the past few years she has spent the summers with another nephew Ralph Wotton and family in Norway, returning to West Bethel to be with relatives and friends during the winter months.

Mrs. Morrill will be remembered as a person of genial personality with a pleasant smile and kindly greeting for all she met. Her love for each and every member of her family will ever be a fond memory for all.

She was a member and faithful attendant of the West Bethel Union Church to which she was very devoted.

She loved to walk and mingle with people and many times often she was younger and well, walked from her home in Mason to church at West Bethel. When asked to ride instead of walking, by relatives and friends, she would often say she enjoyed being out in the warm sunshine and seeing the beauty of God's wonderful world. She was a great lover of flowers and enjoyed tending her house plants and watching them grow. She is survived by several nieces and nephews only.

God sent his angels to bring her home
To lead once more to the Heaven above.
To a rest well earned, no more to roam
But remain forever within His love.

George L. Taylor

GEORGE L. TAYLOR

George L. Taylor, age 56, died Friday at his home after a short illness. The son of John and Melissa Moore Taylor, he was born December 8, 1901, in Butler, Kansas. He received his early education in public schools of that city after which he entered the armed forces and served as a career man in the Marine Corp and as a Lieutenant in the Coast Guard.

Mr Taylor was a veteran of World War II retiring in December 1948, to come to Bethel to make his home. He was the commander of the American Legion Mundt Allen Post 281, a member of Bethel Lodge 297 F. and AM the Chamber of Commerce, and Bethel Health Council. He had a deep love for the young people of the Community and founded as well as served as Cub Master of Pack 2163 of the Bethel Cub Scouts.

Besides his widow, Faye, he is survived by two sons, Kent and Bruce, two sisters, Mrs. Gladys Charlis of Stafford, Kansas; and Mrs. Mable Crossfield of Toronto, Kansas; and three brothers, Carl of Chandler, Arizona, Harold of Axtell, Kansas; and Orson of Chesmee, Oklahoma.

Funeral services were held at the Greenleaf Funeral Home in Bethel, Sunday, at 2 p. m. with Rev. Clifford Lowe, officiating.

A few short months after coming with his family to live in Bethel George's value as a citizen was established. Dependableness and loyalty were dominant features in his career and fine character.

Strong convictions and courage he took a stand for the right won lasting friends for him and he valued and retained the confidence and friendship of his adopted community.

He sponsored many camping trips and set up for neighborhood children and it is long tradition that the Cub Scouts has been popular and fruitful.

To dozens of civic activities and patriotic efforts he has given unsparingly of his time. As an artist and a decorator he has done much to beautify our village and most appearing private homes and public buildings testify to his fine work.

The Bethel Public Library owes its attractive interior to his craftsmanship. The American Legion Hall, the Community Room, The Manse and the handsome auditorium of the West Parish Congregational Church are examples of his artistic skill. His time and labor for community and church projects were always donated.

Sympathy for his bereaved family and a sense of personal loss is felt by us all.

There is no better heritage to leave than the courage of truth and strength.

CHAPMAN CLUB CONCERT TO BE FRIDAY, MARCH 7

The William Rogers Chapman Club of Gould Academy, Howard Christie, president is preparing for a public concert that will be held on Friday evening, March 7 in the William Lapham Gymnasium at 8 o'clock. The theme of this year's concert will be "Mediterranean and Latin-American Music." The music will bring Italian French Spanish, and Latin-American selections in vocal and instrumental combinations. Quite a bit of research has been made in regard to the Latin American selections which will bring out the real music and not necessarily the type that is usually associated with night club music. The public is cordially invited to attend. A more detailed article about the concert will appear in next week's Citizen.

ACROSS the DESK

ideas from other editors

From The Independent, Fuquay, Springs, N.C.: The Russian propaganda success with the Sputniks has revealed that this country has committed grave errors in the images of America which it has sought to establish abroad by propaganda and informational policy. The high standard of living in America has been emphasized as a demonstration of superiority over the Russian system. But the people of the backward countries can never hope to attain a small fraction of what millions of Americans now enjoy. Even in western Europe, America has inducted perhaps unnecessary envy by its emphasis on American prosperity.

The need which the leaders of backward countries feel keenly is that of industrializing as rapidly as possible. They do not believe that they have the time to industrialize which was given to America. This suggests one of the reasons why the Soviet Union has seemed like a model or example for various Asian leaders and intellectuals.

The Russian leaders have been able to develop Russia industrially and to produce earth satellites by sweating and enslaving the Russian people. But in Asia, the enslavement of Russians, and also of Lithuanians, Latvaks and Estonians, does not usually arouse many chords of sympathy. To Asians, success is more impressive than freedom.

Freedom has been the crucial issue, and American propaganda has often watered down the appeal of freedom by over-emphasizing prosperity and richness. A belief about America has been jolted by Sputnik. Fresh thoughts must be given immediately to the problems of propaganda and international policy.

From The Mason County News, Ravenswood, W. Va.: Inflation, it seems, has hit the land of the wild blue yonder, too. Curtis LeMay, the cigar-chomping boss of Strategic Air Command, won himself a Distinguished Flying Cross for going along on a ride in an airborne tanker from Buenos Aires to Washington. He had gone down a few days earlier, and was in a hurry to get back, apparently. So his boys whisked him northward at an average speed of 499.5 miles an hour.

LeMay was listed as pilot of the tanker, and no doubt did handle his share of the controls. But as far as we can see, eleven peacetime hours in a flying living room is hardly a cause for a hero's welcome.

Committee Investigation — The House Committee on Legislative Oversight, of which I am a member, has brought to light some disturbing evidence of possible misconduct in Government, necessitating a thorough investigation.

It is my hope that the Committee can proceed on its mission without further personality clashes and staff difficulties which had for some time slowed up the investigation.

The principal trouble within the Committee, of course, involved the staff director Mr. Bernard Schwartz, now dismissed, who alleges that he was dismissed to effect a so-called "whitewash" of misconduct in certain regulatory agencies.

This is absolutely untrue. The one and only reason for firing Mr. Schwartz was to protect Constitutional rights which were being flagrantly violated and to assure an orderly and efficient conduct of the hearings. It is a basic principle of our democracy that a man is to be considered innocent until proven guilty. But Mr. Schwartz was prejudging the guilt of certain individuals even before they were given the opportunity of appearing before the Committee.

Furthermore, Constitutional rights exist to protect citizens. For example, a wife cannot be called to testify against her husband. This is a desirable right to protect the rights of a person whether he be accused of a crime or merely called as a witness before a Congressional committee.

It is my sincere belief that the Committee is a necessary part of the Congressional process and that it can provide helpful information and legislation.

Both Democrats and Republicans on the Committee are trying to do the best job they can for the benefit of the country and the Congress. I am confident that the Committee will be able to function effectively and that the public will be well served by the work of the Committee under the able chairmanship of Representative Oren Harris of Arkansas.

In a few days now, the major league ball clubs will begin their annual quest for the world championship. Before the season is over, more than one manager is going to say what one said mid-way in last year's season: "I'd give half my team for one good left - handed pitcher."

There was a man in Old Testament days who said that same thing. We don't know his name, but his story is told in the book of Judges, chapter twenty, verse sixteen. He formed an entire regiment of left handed men, "seven hundred chosen men, left-handed; every one could sling stones at an hair breadth, and not miss."

Did it ever strike you as odd that there should be such a large number of soldiers, every one left-handed?

A knowledge of the original Hebrew helps to explain it. For it says "not left-handed," but "those who were injured in their right hands."

Do you get the picture? Here were no "south-paws," but veterans who had been injured in battle, their right arms made useless. So what did they do? They might have retired on a pension. But they didn't. They determined to become so proficient at using their left hands, that their right hands would never be missed. And they succeeded.

How can we use that lesson? The world is full of maimed men and women and children, and deaf ears and blind eyes to whom life has given a rough deal. Some of them give up. Others determine to become "chosen men, left - handed." How about you?

GOULD ACADEMY

Johnson Award Medal Winner

Herbert H. Morton III, a member of the senior class of Gould Academy, is the 1958 winner of the Franck & Lamb Science Medal Award for achieving the highest scholastic record in science subjects during his high school career. It has been announced by Elwood P. Irvine, Headmaster.

Girls' Basketball

The GAC scoring teams running neck to neck at present are the Senior II team with three wins and one loss, Junior II team with two wins and one loss, Sophomore I team with three wins and one loss and the Sophomore II team with three wins and no losses. The Junior I team with two wins and two losses and the Freshmen I team with one win and two losses are not far behind the spotlight. The Senior I team with three losses and no wins and the Freshmen II team with four losses and no wins bring up the rear. Don't feel bad, we all can't be winners.

Mary sat up and took notice of the Freshmen I team when they ordered an exciting game all the way through on Feb 11, coming out with a 19-16 victory over the Junior I team.

The Sophomore I team showed great team work when they came out with a 40-12 victory over the Freshmen II team.

The Senior I team put up a good fight when the Junior I team grabbed the lead in the last half, ending out with a score of 23-15. (said 41—Farmington 37

In an exciting game here last Friday, Farmington High School defeated Gould Academy 61-47. The Hornets fell behind 10-1 at the beginning of the game and although they put on three fine rallies they were never able to catch the Greyhounds whose shooting from around the free throw circle was superb.

The winners had four men shooting in double figures in Dyer (20), Sinclair (12), Pratt (14), and Davis "11". Gould had only two men scoring in two digits in Webber (20) and Hill (10).

The Gould JV's gained revenge for their double overtime defeat at Farmington by soundly thrashing them 47-23. The Gould underclassmen played good ball both on offense and defense.

4-H Award Winners

Joy Richard

Janice DeCato

A knack with milk tests a good cook's IQ. Or so it seems to Joy Richard, 16, of Franklin county, and Janice DeCato, 15, of Oxford county, 1957 state winners in 4-H Dairy Foods Demonstration. The program is conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Rewarding these talented Maine cooks with 15-jewel wrist watches is the Carnation Company, donor of all awards in this program.

Joy's winning demonstration was "A Dairy Food Lunch for a Youngster". She included milk, a salad, sandwiches and custard.

Janice demonstrated "Soft Custard Sauce." She was president of the Ready Workers 4-H Club.

To find his place and fill it is success for a man.

SOCIAL SECURITY CLAIMANTS GET FASTER SERVICE IF THEY FURNISH NEEDED PROOF

Claimants for monthly social security benefits are likely to get their first checks faster if they bring the needed proofs when they come to make their applications, according to John M. Beale, Lewiston District Manager, Social Security Administration. Very often, the time taken to process a claim takes extra days and sometimes weeks because the district office is waiting for the applicant to furnish information he might have had ready when he first asked for benefits. The documents that should be on hand at the start of the claim, it was explained, are these:

1. The social security account card
2. Evidence of recent earnings
3. Evidence of age and relationship.

If the social security card can't be found, some other record of the number can be used. Occasionally informal records of numbers turn out to be incorrect, and the card itself is the best way of showing the number. The account number of the worker is always needed; if a wife is applying and she holds an account number in her own name, that should be brought, too, and if an application is to be made for any other relative who has a number, such as a child, that number will be needed.

Recent earnings may be in the form of wages from employment or profit from self-employment, or occasionally a combination of the two. The reason that evidence of these earnings is needed is that they are often used in figuring the amount of the benefits, and may have been too recent to show up in the worker's earnings account kept by the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Accounting Headquarters in Baltimore, Maryland. If the only earnings in the previous two years have been in the form of wages, then it will be enough to submit the worker's copy of the Form W-2, Withholding Statement, for the last year. This will be returned. If there have been self-employment earnings, evidence of the last year's figures will be needed. Sometimes information on the second year back is also needed, so that it is acting on the safe side to bring the material for both of the last two years. The "evidence" of those earnings is a copy of the return, including both Form 1040 and any Schedule C, "Profit (or Loss) from Business or Profession" and Schedule F, "Schedule of Farm Income and Expenses." Besides those, the claimant should also submit some evidence that he filed these returns with the District Director of Internal Revenue, such as the cancelled check or post office money order stub resulting from payment of his tax.

Evidence of age and relationship applies to a wider range of documents. As to age, a birth certificate or certificate of baptism is the best proof, provided the birth or baptism was recorded when the claimant was an infant. If the birth was recorded close to the time it occurred, the Social Security Administration does not suggest that the individual have a "delayed return" of birth made to the city or town clerk just for purposes of the social security claim. Very often, such a certificate cannot be counted as sufficient evidence for that purpose.

There are many other types of evidence of age which can be submitted if there is no birth or baptism certificate. Some of the more common ones are: Family Bible record; life insurance policies; voting registration record; record of joining a lodge, and hospital record. Evidence from voting, lodge, or hospital records would be submitted in the form of a statement from the custodian of the record certifying as to the date the record was made and what it said of the individual's age or date of birth. Sometimes a marriage record showing age at marriage will help. If none of these is available the district office will be glad to check through the other possibilities with the claimant and see which seem to offer the best prospect of establishing age. It will generally look to older records as stronger evidence than later ones. It may get down to a less common source, such as the inscription on a gravestone, but there is practically always a record somewhere. And when a conflict turns up among the pieces of evidence of age enough sources will have to be tried to give a heavier weight to one date than to the others.

If a widow is making her first claim for monthly benefits on her late husband's account, she will be asked for evidence of marriage—a marriage certificate. If claim for child's benefits is being made, birth certificate of the child will be required. In other situations, there can be need of other types of evidence: proof of disability, proof of court apointment as legal representative, proof of military service, for examples—but whether any of these is needed will be determined when the claim is filed. When a certificate can be readily replaced, the Social Security administration will expect one which it can keep as a part of the permanent file; when the document cannot be replaced, a record will be made of its content and the document returned.

Although applicants can speed their payments by having proofs with them when they apply for benefits, and should try to get them together before the time comes along, they should not delay their applications because they don't have these papers at hand. The application can be accepted first, and the proofs submitted as soon as obtainable afterward.

KORHONEN GRADUATES FROM "BOOT" TRAINING

Philip R. Korhonen, son of Mrs. Wade Robertson of Newry, graduated from recruit training Feb. 8 at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

The graduation exercises, marking the end of nine weeks of "boot camp," included a full dress parade and review before military officials and civilian dignitaries.

In nine weeks of instruction, the "raw recruit," is developed into a Navy Bluejacket, ready for duty with the fleet.

AAA Urges Positive Approach For Improved Traffic Safety

By Jeanne Smith, Dodge Safety Consultant

"SAFETY EXPERTS, lawmakers and police officials can promote safety in their states by putting 'common sense' into traffic laws."

Miss Smith

This opinion was expressed by officials of the American Automobile Association at the recent AAA convention in Phoenix.

"Laws and methods used in many states are negative in their approach," Joseph H. Braun, chairman of the AAA legal advisory committee, told delegates.

"The primary approach," he said, "has been to 'crack down' on the motorist with heavy emphasis on arrests, prosecutions and license suspensions.

"In many instances, no particular effort is made to secure the driver's respect for, or cooperation with, law enforcement efforts."

There are several examples of this negative approach which were adopted by state legislatures and administrations last year, according to Braun.

"For instance," he said, "several states announced plans to increase the use of unmarked police cars and road blocks for ordinary highway patrol work, despite the fact that other areas have abandoned such techniques after unsuccessful experience with them."

Other AAA officials pointed out that marked patrol cars influence motorists to slow down and drive more safely, thus preventing far more accidents than unmarked cars.

Another negative approach, according to Braun, was the adoption by a number of states of fixed, absolute speed limits, permanently written into the law, and applicable to all highways in the state regardless of varying conditions, weather or the road.

"The proper purpose of speed limit laws," he said, "is to expedite highway travel consistently with prevailing conditions affecting safety. The logical way to control unsafe speed is through flexible speed limits which allow motorists and enforcement officers to take into account the condition of traffic and the road, as they vary from time-to-time and place-to-place.

Enforcement of fixed, absolute limits or the use of unmarked police cars seldom have the desired effect of reducing the average speed at which traffic moves, Braun points out.

"Often they have produced the opposite result and almost invariably they have lessened general public respect for the law," he said.

Braun and his committee believe that a positive approach to traffic safety can best be achieved by this three-point program:

1. Stop putting major reliance upon fear of arrest as the basis for traffic law enforcement. States with the most impressive records in reducing highway accidents have achieved these records through a coordinated program of driver improvement, traffic engineering, improved highway design and enlightened traffic supervision.

2. Improve driver licensing procedures so that public officials can reach and deal with the "problem driver" more effectively.

3. Recognize that public acceptance, rather than legislative decree, is the basis for successful traffic regulation, and that constructive leadership is the most effective force for the promotion of highway safety.
